Technology = ~~less freedom?~~ ^{bad}

It is not a secret that all people nowadays are majorly affected by the technology which has been developing rapidly in the recent period of time. ~~It~~ However, it is doubted by many individuals whether the impact of it on our society is positive or not. Has our life become better with technology, has it increased our freedom? Let's find out.

Technology, such as Internet, phones, computers, impacts our societies in numerous ways. For example, today we can instantly contact people from the opposite side of the globe via mobile phone, SMS or e-mail, Internet provided us with an ~~at~~ infinite source of information and television makes it possible to know about all the recent news without any minor delay. ~~and it's~~ ~~there are plenty more examples of~~ Yet some might say that such simplicity of life makes people lazy, ~~and they won't be~~ I, personally, doubt such view and think that at any time & hard labour would be in demand and people ~~even~~ ~~will~~ would work no matter how developed ~~the~~ technology is.

But despite all ~~of~~ the profits there are major drawbacks of technology. The prime example would be ~~ecological problems~~ ~~of~~ ~~even~~ strengthening control over our personal data by government. Internet allows security agencies and criminals to access confidential information about people. ~~It~~ Making it simpler to hunt criminals, this has led to numerous scandals when the government received data from big companies. Though it makes it simpler to hunt criminals, there's been many scandals when the government received users' personal data from big companies in violation of all confidentiality policies. ~~and~~ confidential policies.

All in all, ~~the~~ technology is a thing that has its drawbacks, I stand a point that ~~it's~~ overall it has made our lives better and brought more freedom allowing us things that were completely unbelievable only 60 years ago.
